A family affair

Grammar

Present perfect simple and continuous

- 1 Read this email and put the verbs in brackets into the most appropriate form (present perfect simple or continuous).

To: Stephanie

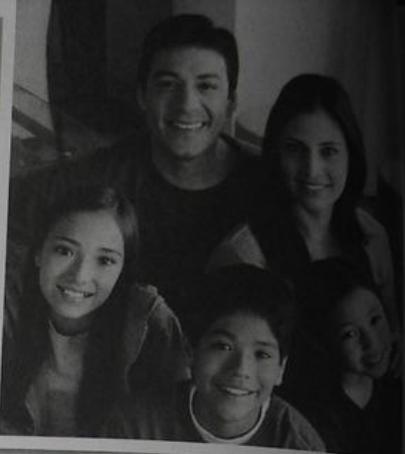

Hi Stephanie

How are you? I (1) 've been having (have) a lovely time here in Spain. Sorry I (2) (not write) to you for ages but I (3) (work) hard here in Spain since I arrived six weeks ago. The family I'm living with are very kind and I (4) (met) some really nice Spanish people of my age. They (5) (take) me out a few times. I think my Spanish (6) (improve) a lot because I (7) (not have) the opportunity to speak much English since I arrived, except to the children. My job is to look after the children, who are 5, 8 and 11. I'm normally not supposed to work at weekends but the parents (8) (go) to Madrid this weekend. I think the mother is missing the children a lot – she (9) (phone) six times already! The children (10) (play) in the garden since breakfast though and they're quite happy so I (11) (write) emails all morning. I (12) (send) six so far!

I won't see you now until the end of September because I (13) (change) my flight so that I can go travelling before I come home.

I (14) (wonder) what you (15) (do) since I left! Write back soon and tell me all your news.

Love Emily

Asking questions (present perfect simple and continuous)

- 2 A week later, Stephanie phones Emily and asks her some questions. Use the prompts to write her questions using the most appropriate form (present perfect simple or continuous) in the speech balloons.

1 you visit / Madrid yet?

Have you visited Madrid yet?

2 you get up early / every day?

4 you learn / how to cook Spanish food?

5 How many times / you eat / paella?

3 you buy / anything?

6 where / you decide / to go travelling?

When my cousin comes to stay in the holidays she shares my room. Last summer I thought I'd give her a surprise and (1) (decorate it) before she came. First of all, I had to (2) (tidy) and that took ages because it was a real mess. In fact, I was so (3) (tired) that I had to have a rest before going to the shop to buy the paint. I couldn't decide whether to (4) (choose) green or blue but in the end blue seemed best. When I came out of the shop, I realised I couldn't carry all the stuff I'd bought so my mum had to come and (5) (collect me). Then I only had a day to get it all done. I (6) (continue) painting nearly all night. The annoying thing was my cousin didn't even notice when she arrived.

Writing | Part 2 An article

Read part of an article written by a student for a magazine and correct the spelling and punctuation. There are 15 mistakes. The first one has been corrected for you.

Being a teenager

I definitely think that teenage year's should be the best in everyones life because you can have fun and you have fewer problems than adults teenagers know how to have a good time. Most teenagers have a lot of freinds and they discuss things that they are interested in. Teenagers have to be in fashion wearing up-to-date cloths and listening to modern music. They also like to do sports and compete in matchs. But teenager's parents sometimes have a difficult time and they dont understand why? Wouldnt you feel angry if someone went into your room without permission. So do teenagers. Teenagers stop thinking like children as they grow up and their believes and their interests change. My opinion is that teenage years are magical and Id like to stay a teenager forever.

Listening | Part 3

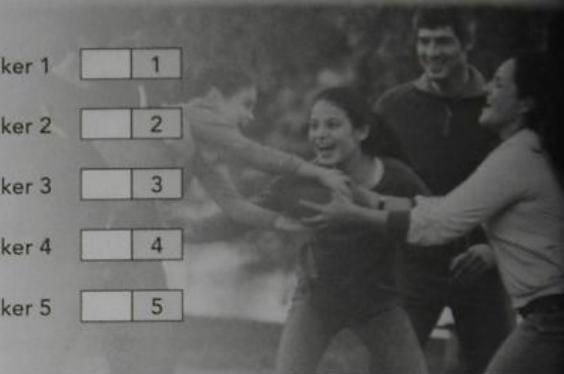

D02 You will hear five short extracts in which teenagers are talking about a family day out. For questions 1–5, choose from the list (A–H) what each speaker says about the day. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.

- A I got bored with what we were doing after a while.
- B I enjoyed the day more than I had expected.
- C I had a better time than some members of my family.
- D I was disappointed about something.
- E I was annoyed about a change of plan.
- F I didn't have time to do everything I wanted.
- G I regretted a decision I made.
- H I was relieved that the day was a success.

thinks people make a judgement about only children which is mistaken?

thinks they developed a better understanding of adults because of being an only child?

finds their present circumstances a challenge?

says that only children have needs which can be difficult for others to deal with?

realised at a particular point that they were happy being an only child?

was unaware that their reactions to being an only child were not unique?

had problems as a child because they lacked a necessary skill?

says they accept their situation because they don't know anything different?

mentions a positive benefit of spending a lot of time alone?

10

Exam advice

Read the questions, then quickly read the texts. When you find the part of a text which matches the question, underline it.

Being an only child

"What's it like to spend a lifetime without brothers and sisters?" asks Joanna Moorhead.

A Sam Thompson, aged 10

When my mum's friend had a baby, it made me think about being an only child for the first time. I thought, would I like to have brothers and sisters? But to be honest, my friend's sister looked quite annoying – he was always having to watch her and I decided I was better off on my own. There are lots of good things about being an only child. I have privacy, and I like that; some of my friends have to share a bedroom and I know that will never happen to me. Plus I get time on my own with Mum and Dad, and that's very special.

B Bethany Shaw, aged 15

One of the bad things about being an only child when you're young is the reaction you get from other people. They think you're spoilt – you see that look in their eyes. And then you have to prove you're not spoilt, although you know you're not and nor are most only children. In general, I think the negatives outweigh the positives, but on the other hand it's all I've known and I'm OK with it.

C Leah Mitchell, aged 29

I went away to school when I was seven, and the hardest thing I found was making friends. Because I was an only child, I just didn't know how to do it. The thing is that when you're an only child, often there aren't any other children at a gathering. I found being an only child interesting, in that it gave me a place at the grown-ups' table and gave me a view into their world that children in a big family might not get. And I know it has, at least partly, made me into the person I am: I never like the idea of being one of a group, for example. I'm not comfortable with being one of a gang.

D Laura Arnold, aged 36

I know some only children feel stifled by their parents' constant demands and worries, but that wasn't my experience. I found being an only child enriching, which I think is mainly because we get on so well. I've got two children now and I do find that scary. The problem is I've absolutely no experience of this kind of situation; nothing in my past has prepared me for having to divide myself between the needs of these two little people, and the guilt is hard when I feel I've not been there enough for one of them. And on a practical level, things like sibling rivalry are going to be a whole new ball game.

E Jasmine Weller, aged 49

I always felt a little odd, and assumed it was something about me. It was only in my 30s, when I was training to be a psychotherapist, that I found myself with a group of only children, describing our experiences. It was a revelation because it made me realise that other people felt many of the same things. Growing up in a small unit means we need time to ourselves, which can cause problems with partners and friends, who might misinterpret it as rejection. There are pluses too. Being on your own helps you to become resourceful, and develop your imagination and creativity.

Writing | Part 2

Organising ideas into paragraphs Compound and complex sentences

1 Read the sentences about a children's game. Make complex sentences by joining the two sentences in each line with and, but or because.

1 My sister and I often talk about playing 'Pom Pom Home'.

We laugh about all the places we used to hide.

My sister and I often talk about playing 'Pom Pom Home' and we laugh about all the places we used to hide.

2 I would like to teach this game to my children.

They're too young at the moment.

3 I loved playing it with all the kids in the neighbourhood.

It was really exciting.

4 Any number of people can play.

It's more fun with between six and eight players.

5 My favourite game was called 'Pom Pom Home'.

I haven't played it since I was 12.

6 On long summer evenings we'd play for hours.

We'd come home completely exhausted.

7 To rescue someone you had to run and touch 'home'.

Then you had to run away quickly before you got caught.

8 It's basically quite similar to 'Hide and Seek'.

It's just a bit more complicated and active.

9 I was always really thrilled when my older brother played with us.

He was a fast runner and he would always rescue me if I got caught.

- 2 Now look at the exam task and a student's plan below. Match the combined sentences (1–9) from a student's answer to the correct paragraphs (A–D).

Reading and Use of English | Part 2

For questions 1–8, read the text below and think of the word which best fits each gap. Use only one word in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

Singing in a choir

The benefits (0) of singing in a choir are numerous. Research has shown that young people (1) sing in choirs do better (2) their studies and have a tendency to be healthier. If you are considering joining a choir, you need to be sure that you can sing in tune. This might seem obvious, but unless you can, (3) is little point in seeking out a choir (4) you'll only get rejected. Any choir you apply (5) join is likely to want to audition you. Don't worry if you can't read music; that can (6) taught later. If you're accepted, you'll find choir practices hard work, but great fun. You'll learn how to read music and how to sing (7) confidence. Your voice and technique will probably develop quite quickly and you may just end (8) wondering why you didn't do this years ago.

Reading and Use of English | Part 4

For questions 1–6, complete the second sentence so that it has a similar meaning to the first sentence, using the word given. Do not change the word given. You must use between two and five words, including the word given. Here is an example (0).

Example:

0 His sister plays chess better than he does.

AS

He doesn't play chess as well as his sister.

Write only the missing words IN CAPITAL LETTERS.

1 The ticket was cheaper than I had expected.

AS

The ticket

I had expected.

2 Eliza felt disappointed not to be chosen for the team.

FOR

It Eliza not to be chosen for the team.

3 Taking regular exercise is how my grandmother lived to be 100.

BECAUSE

My grandmother lived to be 100 regular exercise.

4 She prefers tennis to hockey.

MUCH

She doesn't as tennis.

5 I think golf is more boring than any other sport.

LEAST

I think golf sport.

6 I was really excited during the race because I knew I was going to come first.

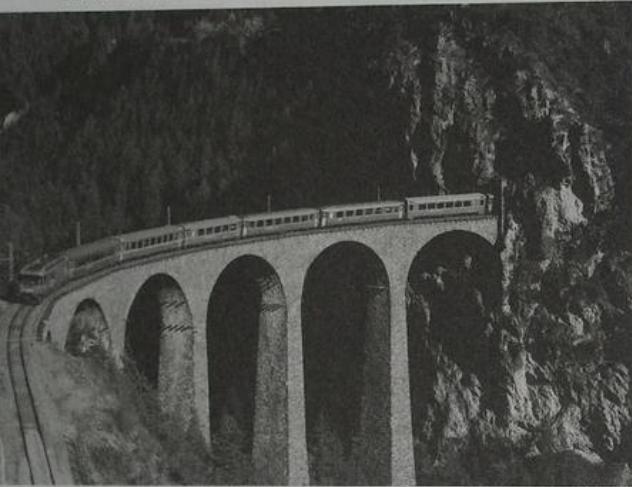

FOUND

I because I knew I was going to come first.

Exam advice

Check the other options are not correct before choosing your answer.

You are going to read a newspaper article about someone arriving home after a long trip. For questions 1–6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

In from the cold

Jim Whyte flew out of Japan after spending four months crossing Siberia.

I got my usual seat on the plane, between the man with a large laptop and the woman with a screaming baby and directly in front of the kicking toddler. On this flight I had the added bonus of being at the front up against the wall which meant no legroom and no view of the movies. I'd read the in-flight magazine for the fifth time and discovered that the only film I hadn't seen was being shown on every flight operated by the airline except this one, all before the plane had finished taxiing down the runway.

line 8
line 9

The flight home followed almost exactly the route I'd taken since November, flying via Seoul, Beijing and Mongolia to Irkutsk and then across the frozen wastes to Moscow. I looked out of the window for any signs of something familiar but I could see nothing but a sea of frozen trees stretching north to the Arctic Sea. A journey that had taken four months, several visas and huge quantities of thermal underwear to complete now took little more than 12 hours, three lousy films and two airline meals to undo.

As the plane came in to land over London in the late afternoon sunshine, the Japanese and Korean tourists peered out of the windows for their first view through the London clouds of the suburbs round Heathrow Airport with the same enthusiasm I'd had for my first view of Kyoto or Ulan Bator. After such a long time away, even I found the regimented streets a strange sight.

By the time I'd collected my luggage from the carousel, was beginning to sink in that I was home. I was no longer some strange exotic creature attracting the stares and attention of the local people and I realised I resented this. At least with my long hair and shaggy beard it was a certainty that I would be stopped at customs. 'What was the purpose of your visit?' I was asked. I was really beginning to enjoy the reaction to my answers, but the customs officer had already had enough of me and let me go. The doors to the arrivals hall sprung open and I was greeted by a sea of smiling, welcoming faces which quickly turned blank again when they realised I wasn't their relative. By the time I'd reached the other side of the hall, I'd lost the 'I'm back! Guess where I've been!' look on my face.

Little had changed in the past four months. If you had arrived back from such a journey some years ago, the UK could have been struck by a hurricane and you wouldn't have known about it until the pilot started circling above looking for a place to land. These days email, the Internet and 24-hour news mean that, despite your best efforts, it's impossible to completely lose touch with home; well, except when you stay in a tent in the desert for a week or so.

It was with a sense of sadness that I unpacked my dirty clothes and put my trusty rucksack in the cupboard. Somehow it just didn't seem right to see a piece of luggage that had spent its whole life travelling through the wilds of the Arctic, Europe and the wide open spaces of Asia, now folded up and confined to a shelf above the towels and bed linen until I set off again.

I loved every minute of the trip especially seeing the northern lights in Abisko, the Trans-Siberian Railway, camping in Mongolia and New Year in China. I'm already planning my next journey and reckon that the perfect antidote to crossing Siberia in January is to cross the Sahara in August. What do you think?

A For dessert we had a really nice cheesecake. It was the nicest cheesecake I had ever tasted. It was even nicer than the cheesecake my grandmother makes and her cheesecake is very, very nice.

B It was my friend's 18th birthday so we ordered a big cake for her as a surprise. As soon as the waiter appeared with the cake, everyone in the restaurant started singing 'Happy Birthday'. My friend was really embarrassed.

C We complained about the service but the manager didn't seem bothered. I think that's terrible. I mean, if a customer complains, the manager should do something about it. My dad says he doesn't know how a restaurant like that can survive. The food's rubbish anyway; it's not just the service that's bad.

D I like Dylan's restaurant because the food is delicious. The waiters are really friendly and there is a good atmosphere there. All my friends like this restaurant because the food is good and it isn't expensive.

E It's an unusual place because everyone sits together at long tables, so you have to talk to people you have never met before. There's no menu, only a list of two or three dishes on a blackboard. This means the food is always really fresh. I like sitting with people I don't know because you meet some interesting people that way.

Reading and Use of English | Part 6

You are going to read an article for American teenagers going overseas to study. Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A–G the one which fits each gap (1–6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Studying Abroad

Have you always dreamed of traveling, meeting lots of different people, and maybe picking up a language or two? No matter what country you live in, you can fly over the world's highest waterfalls in Venezuela, learn world trade in Japan, study in France, or take dancing lessons in Ghana.

How? 1 Semester, summer, and year-long programs allow you to attend school, take intensive language courses, or perform community service in another country. Read on to learn more about study abroad programs.

Besides the excitement of travel, you will experience new customs, holidays, foods, art, music, and politics firsthand. 2 This is because your viewpoint will be of an active member of the community, not as a tourist.

Another reason for studying abroad is that you'll become more self-assured. Christina studied in Caracas, Venezuela, a city of ten million people and a huge change from her hometown of 35,000! Christina says she learned how to be better at standing up for herself and her beliefs, and to express herself in another language. 3 In addition, living away from home can also help you adjust in the transition to college and adulthood. Matthew says when he returned from studying in Australia, he was more mature and had a genuine interest in international affairs that really set him apart from his peers. 'After having gone abroad in high school, I found the transition to college to be straightforward – moving 560 miles from home didn't seem particularly daunting after having lived thousands of miles away.'

Although many academic programs abroad have academic requirements, you do not necessarily have to have the highest grades or marks to be eligible. 4 Who you are is as important as your academic record. Study programs abroad look for students who are independent, self-assured, enjoy having new experiences and meeting different types of people, and can handle challenges.

If you really hate change and don't like the idea of figuring things out all on your own, then studying abroad may not be for you. It's important to be honest with yourself and really think about what you expect. 5 Of course, if you want to change those things about yourself and don't mind tackling them head on, then studying abroad may be an ideal way to take the plunge.

Are you convinced that a year abroad is for you, but you're worried that your parents will never go for it? 6 Explain that studying abroad is a chance of a lifetime and that it offers great academic opportunities.

You might also sell them on the idea that students in study programs abroad gain experiences by being in a new culture, broaden their horizons, and increase their maturity and self-confidence levels. And by studying abroad you will have an educational advantage when entering college or starting a career.

- A Use some of the points of view that sold you on the idea to explain why you want to study overseas.
- B But perhaps more importantly, the different circumstances mean you will learn a lot not only about cultures and people but also about yourself.
- C You could join a study program abroad, where high-school and college students live with a host family in a foreign country.

- D What could give you more self-confidence than that?
- E You will have forgotten any doubts you once had about your decision.
- F And most do not have language requirements.

that journalists should not let their own point of view influence what they write? 10

Working in the news

Newspaper journalists or reporters source, research and write stories for publication in local, regional and national press. Four young reporters tell us what it's like for them and offer tips for those who are hoping to become journalists.

A Craig

As a reporter, you really have to be ready for anything. A story could come up on a subject you know nothing about and you may have just half an hour to read a report or past stories before you interview someone. I spend most of my time in the office, unfortunately. My advice for potential journalists is that you need to be able to speak to anyone in all walks of life. A story could come up where the subject is close to your heart but you have to be unbiased and open to other people's opinions, even if you do not agree with them. Every subject is useful – you need to know a little bit about everything.

B Beth

I would say about 60% of my time is spent inside the office. It is always better to visit someone in their house as it makes for a much better story, but due to time constraints unfortunately this is not always possible. The experience I'm gaining at a local newspaper will set me up for a job on a bigger newspaper. Local newspapers are a great source of news for national newspapers. The general agreement at my newspaper is that the story can be passed on as long as it has appeared in our paper or on our website first. To be a journalist you must be outgoing and professional, and you also have to ensure accuracy in all stories. You will often find yourself in a situation where you have to generate a conversation with a complete stranger who may not want to speak to you!

C Andrew

My first job was with a regional paper. I think the editor was impressed by the fact that I come from the area and know about local issues. I now work from home on a freelance basis, writing features for the Sunday newspapers. You have to be very self-motivated and able to generate ideas for new stories all the time. In a good week I'll sell two or three features to magazines. Some weeks I'll sell nothing. Journalism isn't a profession where you progress upwards from one position to the next. I've made several moves already but it's not clear whether they were upwards, downwards or sideways! You need to be prepared to work hard to get work experience, get a qualification and demonstrate your commitment. If you're a specialist in anything (sport, music, computer games), write about it.

D Deborah

I had no career plan at all when I graduated – I found work with a very small family-owned paper where I found myself doing all sorts of jobs. While there I decided to train as a journalist. I must be the only person in the universe to 'fall into' journalism! A crucial part of my job is building contacts locally. I attend a lot of council meetings to try to find out what is going on with the 15,000 employees and attend numerous other meetings. Why do I do it? It's certainly not for the money, which is very poor. I really enjoy seeing my words change things. The frustrations include leaving a story I'm enjoying working on because the editor wants something else.

Report on college trip to Brookwood Adventure Centre

Introduction

The aim of this report is to evaluate the recent college trip to Brookwood Adventure Centre and to make recommendations about future college visits to this centre.

College trip, 19–23 June

Brookwood is conveniently situated from the college (two hours by bus) near Bluewater Lake. 20 students from the college spent five days there and took part in a sailing course.

The facilities

The accommodation was very comfortable and spacious. The food was excellent, although some students said there wasn't enough choice. There are also cheap restaurants a short bicycle ride away.

The courses

The activities were well organised and safety standards were high. Students said they enjoyed the course despite the bad weather. Some students thought there weren't enough opportunities to practise sailing but they were impressed with the instructors, who were all extremely experienced. Each student was given a lot of personal attention which helped them to develop their confidence.

Conclusion

I believe this course was beneficial for all the participants. It was also good value for money. For these reasons I would suggest organising the same trip next year.

Reading and Use of English | Part 6

You are going to read an article about a woman who works with celebrities as a fashion stylist. Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A–G the one which fits each gap (1–6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

'I often spend the day shopping'

Rachel Fanconi is a fashion stylist who has worked with many stars. She was interviewed by Alex McRae Fashion styling is basically about making people look nice. I work on editorial photo shoots, styling models for fashion spreads in magazines and newspapers, and I also style celebrities for big awards ceremonies. 1 There's actually a strong commercial element to styling.

A typical day usually starts with me packing up and returning clothes worn at an awards ceremony the night before, then heading out to find new things for my next assignment. Some stylists go through public relations agencies to find clothes. 2 As a stylist, your contacts are extremely important, so I'm very protective of mine. If I'm finding clothes for someone new, I'll call the person first to discuss their likes and dislikes, which helps me to put together a profile. Then I'll spend the day shopping and bring back lots of different outfits for them to choose from.

The best thing about my job is shopping. I hope that doesn't sound too shallow. 3 I work with a big list of people – models, make-up artists, photographers – on various different assignments, and it's lovely checking in with them if I haven't seen them for a few months. You're collaborating together to make something look gorgeous, and when things come together, it's hugely satisfying. It's easy, however, to get caught up in the glamour of the job. I feel that with any demanding career, it's important to have a balance. 4 My husband and I are both stylists and we try to avoid this. We're great football fans – we go to lots of games and try to keep one part of our lives separate from our jobs.

There are a range of skills you need to be a top fashion stylist. It's not enough to have an artistic eye. 5 For example, if you go to gigs, exhibitions and plays, it will inform your work. During a fashion shoot, you have to be hawk-eyed, ready to swoop on any uneven hemlines. It is important to be really thorough and careful. I take digital photos and print out suggestions of shoe, bag and outfit combinations, to make sure everything goes together.

So the reality is that it's a lot of hard work. If you want to be a fashion stylist, get a qualification under your belt – not necessarily a degree in fashion styling, but maybe in design. 6 Then do work experience with a stylist in the most stressful environment possible – probably fashion shoots for a newspaper – so you learn to work under pressure to a deadline. Try to learn your craft from a stylist you admire, be as professional as you can, and be prepared to do a lot of work for free.

- A Otherwise, you could let styling take over your life and become a caricature 'fashion' person, in a bubble.
- B You should try to find inspiration in unexpected places.
- C I work differently in that I prefer to deal with people directly, and I try to support London designers.
- D More important is planning and organisation.
- E Their clothes are usually loaned, because when an outfit appears in a magazine or on a celebrity, it's advertising.
- F That will give you a useful range of skills.
- G Apart from that, it's the social aspect of the job which is important to me.

2 Read the paragraph about risk-taking. Circle the correct modal verbs.

Psychologists believe that taking risks has always been part of human nature. For early humans, risk-taking (1) must / can't have been part of everyday life. Psychologists think that early human risk-takers (2) may / can't have been more likely to explore new places, possibly finding a new source of water or food. Such individuals (3) can't / might also have risked doing things differently, such as using a new kind of weapon or animal trap. These acts (4) must / mustn't have given the risk-taker a great sense of achievement, but (5) can't / could also have profoundly benefited his or her group by improving their lives in some way.

Writing | Part 2 An article

You see this advertisement in your college magazine.

Articles wanted

Who has inspired you most?

A friend? A family member? Someone famous?

Tell us why you admire them and describe the influence this person has had on you.

The best article will appear in next term's magazine.

Write your article in 140–190 words.

1 Read the following introductory paragraphs.

- 1 Which title do you think has the most impact?
- 2 Which paragraph is about the right length?
- 3 Underline all the adjectives which describe personality and feelings.
- 4 Which paragraph repeats the same vocabulary and structures too often?

A living example

My favourite aunt has had a very big influence on me. She is my father's oldest sister and I spent a lot of time with her when I was growing up. She didn't have any children of her own so she treated all her nephews and nieces as if they were her own children. She was quite old-fashioned in many ways and could be quite critical if she didn't approve of our behaviour or our clothes. But at the same time she was always ready to listen to us and discuss our feelings without getting shocked or angry.

My favourite cousin

My family have all influenced me in different ways. My parents taught me to be responsible and to work hard. My grandmother taught me how to cook. But the person who has had the biggest impact on me is my cousin Robert because he taught me how to have fun and how to enjoy life.

2 Read the rest of My favourite cousin.

- Find more adjectives that describe personality and feelings.
- Replace the word very with a word from the box to add variety and interest. Can you use the modifying adverbs in the box in all the examples?

extremely particularly really quite

Robert was (1) very confident whereas I used to be (2) very shy and always stressed. But Robert taught me that being stressed doesn't help solve problems. Robert never got upset when things went wrong and I decided I wanted to be like him. So I stopped worrying so much and soon I began to enjoy life more.

A cousin who is a few years older can have a (3) very big influence. In my case Robert had a bigger influence than my older brother because that relationship was always (4) very competitive and my brother never wanted to spend time with me.

Now Robert and I have (5) very different jobs and interests but I will always be (6) very grateful to him for showing me that it's easy to have fun and enjoy life.

Now I sit down every month and add (11) up / up to how much I've spent and compare it with how much money I have.

Reading and Use of English | Part 6

You are going to read an article about the psychology of shopping. Six sentences have been removed from the article. Choose from the sentences A–G the one which fits each gap (1–6). There is one extra sentence which you do not need to use.

Who's playing mind games with you?

Designing a shop is a science, as we found out when we did some research

A bit of retail therapy is supposed to be good for you. You stroll round the shops at leisure, try on items which catch your eye, make those purchases you've been meaning to get for ages. But who's really making the choices? You're certainly picking up the bill, but the shops could be having a bigger say than you think.

We all know how supermarkets use the smell of baking around the store to draw shoppers in and how soothing music can make you stay longer while faster tunes are designed to keep you on the move. 1 Tim Denison, who is a retail psychologist, confirmed this increase and he let me in on some of the secrets of the retail sector.

The shops are clearly far more sophisticated than you might think. 2 In fact this can start before you even get that far, with warm air over the doorway to encourage you in. Of course, that wouldn't work in hot countries. They have their own version with air conditioning at the entrance.

Smells are still a favourite – travel agents sometimes release a coconut odour to get you in the holiday mood. Items placed at eye level are supposed to sell better, and the end-of-aisle displays are best for persuading people to buy food they hadn't intended to. 3 You're then more likely to stop and buy something. Colours are also used successfully.

But where the art is really catching on is in the way it differentiates between women and men. A woman entering a shop might well find party clothes, with lots of frills and special materials, at the front. 'The key to effective retailing for women,' explains Tim, 'is to make the buying of clothes an engaging experience.' 4 They will be grouped not by what they are but their style – classic or casual, for instance.

When men go shopping it's a different ball game. They want to buy a pair of jeans because their old ones have worn out. In fact, they probably want to get exactly the same jeans.

5 So menswear shops are laid out with everything in its place and men can buy what they want and go. 'We all know that men hate shopping,' says Tim, 'so what we have to do is make it as simple and spartan as we can.'

But just as the shops are becoming more sophisticated, so are the shoppers. If you're looking for a flat to buy or rent and you notice the smell of freshly brewed coffee, you're likely to get suspicious because this is an old trick to convince people it's a nice place to live. So while the mind games are targeting our subconscious, they tend to work well.

6 We don't mind spending our hard-earned cash, but we want to feel we're making the choices, not them.

- A Such items are placed near each other so they can be visualised together, as an outfit.
- B These kinds of techniques have been around for a while, but there's evidence that their use is growing.
- C When those decisions are made for us, it can stop us from buying anything at all.
- D You spend longer turning corners with awkward trolleys, so they catch your eye.
- E These shoppers don't want to be faced with ideas and suggestions.
- F But if they become too obvious, we're likely to resist, and things can backfire for shop-owners.
- G The minute you walk through their front doors, most of your senses are attacked.

Writing | Part 1 Developing your argument

- 1 Read part of the first draft of a student's answer to this essay and the teacher's comments.

In your English class, you have been talking about people's eating habits now and in the past. Now, your English teacher has asked you to write an essay.

Write an essay using all the notes and give reasons for your point of view.

Essay question

Children's diets are unhealthier today than in the past.

Notes

Write about:

- 1 unhealthy snacks
- 2 cooking habits
- 3 your own idea

Give an example

Explain why this is a problem

There is a lot of evidence to show that children's diets are unhealthier today than in the past. (1) Today children's diets are unhealthier than in the past because they eat too many unhealthy snacks. (2)

In the past children didn't buy so many snacks (3)

Children's diets are also unhealthier because they eat too much fast food (4) Nowadays a lot of mothers don't have time for cooking (5) so they buy supermarket meals to put in the microwave instead. In the past people didn't have microwaves.

On the other hand, children's diets have improved a lot in the last 50 years. (6)

There is a lot of information for parents about the kinds of food they should give their children. (7) Children are also taught about the importance of a good diet in school.

Give an example

In what way?

- 2 Now match the sentences/clauses from the student's second draft (A–H) to the correct part (1–7) of the essay. There is one extra sentence which does not match.

A Most tins and packets that we buy today, for example, have labels on them saying exactly what they contain.

B which is bad for their health because this type of food isn't fresh and contains too much sugar, fat and salt.

C This means children don't eat as much healthy food as they should and so many of them are overweight.

D For example, children see these snacks advertised on television.

E Although many children in some countries still suffer from malnutrition, in richer countries most parents can afford to buy meat and fresh fruit for their children, which was not possible for a lot of families in the past.

F A good example of this is the fact that in many parts of the world childhood obesity has increased dramatically recently.

G because they have full-time jobs

H because they didn't have as much money as children today.

Taking care of nurses

It's a nurse's (0) ...responsibility... to care for her patients and help them recover from their illness. This doesn't just mean giving patients medicine. Part of the (1) may involve giving them advice on improving their diet and exercise routines so they can increase their (2) and avoid becoming ill again. But who looks after the well-being and (3) of nurses?

While trying to satisfy the demands of a busy schedule, some nurses find it difficult to take the time to take care of themselves. This is especially true of young, (4) nurses.

Because nurses have a very (5) lifestyle and are constantly rushed off their feet, they're unlikely to need any (6) exercise. However, many nurses often don't have a (7) diet because they're too busy to eat properly during the working day. This can mean relying on snacks instead of having (8) meals. | 4 You should always | D tell someone where you are going. |
| 5 If I were you, | E walk with other people. |

Example: I'd advise you to wear a bell.

2 Now read the email. Complete each gap with one of the sentences from Exercise 1.

Dear Irena

You said in your last email that you're going to Yellowstone Park in the USA for a holiday. I went there last year and I know you'll have a good time.

But don't forget that Yellowstone is bear country. While you're walking, make a lot of noise which frightens the bears away. (1) Some parts of the park are shut in spring and early summer. (2)

The other thing to remember is that most of the park is wild. It can be dangerous to be on your own.

(3) Even if you are in a group, it's really important that you plan your route. (4) Finally, it can get very hot. (5)

Here's a photo of me in Yellowstone. It's a beautiful place.

Reading and Use of English | Part 5

You are going to read an article from a magazine about a holiday in Africa. For questions 1–6, choose the answer (A, B, C or D) which you think fits best according to the text.

African Safari

Martin Symington went on a camping safari holiday with his wife and three teenagers

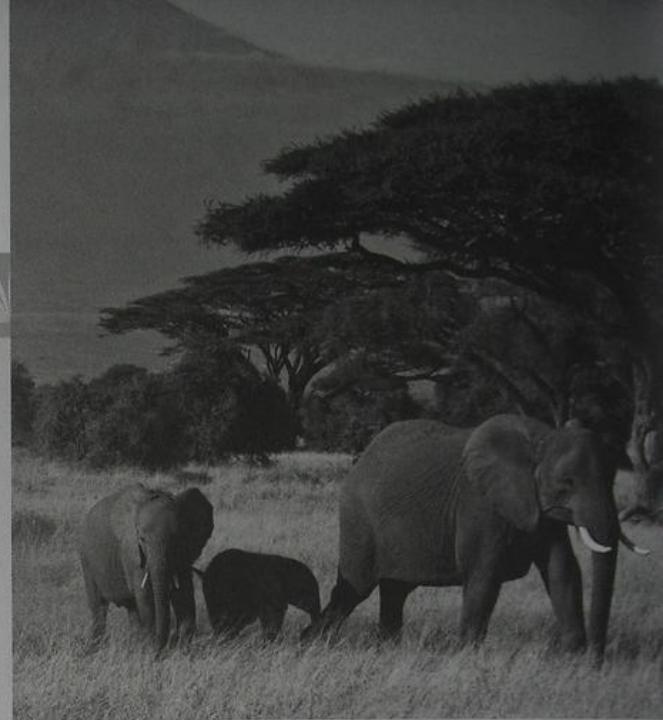

We stood silently under the stars, just metres from our tent, hardly daring to breathe. Adam, one of the camp staff, swept a torch beam across a clearing where four impala stood, panicky on their nimble legs. Could they sense the danger they were in? Did they know, as we did, that a female leopard lay under a thorn bush?

She sprang. Four shadowy shapes bounced into the woods. Had the leopard made a successful kill? We all had our theories, but in truth the whole scene had taken place too quickly, and in insufficient light, for any of us to be sure. Now we understood why we had been warned not to go out of our tent after dark, except when accompanied by a staff member. In fact, we had been on our way from the tent to the supper-time camp-fire when Adam's torch had unexpectedly caught the leopard's glinting green eyes. Half an hour later we had a tale to outdo most told around the fire. 'This has got to be the best nightlife in the world,' replied Toby, when some middle-aged fellow safari enthusiast asked him how he was enjoying his holiday.

So much for the assortment of self-appointed experts who doubted that safaris and teenagers would be a workable mix. True, this is a difficult age, with adolescents beginning to sense that they are too old for family holidays. But nor did ours want to return to beach resorts with the kind of 'teen clubs' they wouldn't be seen dead in. So, my wife Hennie and I reckoned, if we were going to have one really good family holiday, why not Africa?

Our holiday began with a flight to Arusha airport, then a long drive to West Kilimanjaro Camp – a semi-permanent gathering of explorer-style tents near the base of the great volcano which was to tease us with rare glimpses of her snowy summit which is 5,895 metres high.

Next we took to the hot African sky in a small plane and headed south. Unlike in West Kilimanjaro, there is no human population in the Ruaha other than a lodge for the park rangers, and four small safari camps. We chose to stay at Mdonya Old River Camp because this is one that avoids luxuries such as soft beds and fluffy towels; these, to my mind, can become obstacles to connecting with nature in the raw. Instead, the five of us shared a simple, yet adequate, tent at the edge of a dried-up sand river.

If there was one disappointment about the wildlife viewing in Tanzania, it was that game drives are not permitted in any of the country's national parks after dusk. But if anything, this made our night-time meeting with the leopard and impala outside our tent even more special, bringing home to us the rewards of staying at camps where there are no fences, distractions or even electricity.

By day we mixed game drives with walks through the bush under the protection of our guide Esau for the time we spent in Ruaha. He taught us about bush safety: stay attentive and at a distance from the wildlife, and always stand still if you see an animal approaching you. We spotted only plant-eating animals – elephant, zebra and a pair of giraffes – but we all listened carefully to his repeated message to 'remember that you will see less than one per cent of what sees you'.

Our final hop was over to Zanzibar where we sailed out to a sandbank, swam through bright yellow and pink-and-blue fish and watched a crimson sun set. And we concluded that if there is one family holiday that will have undying teen appeal, it is a safari.

1 How did the family feel when they were sitting round the camp-fire?

- A interested in the stories of the other campers
- B proud of what they had seen earlier
- C sorry they had disturbed the leopard
- D annoyed they didn't know what happened in the end

2 Why did the writer and his wife decide to choose a safari holiday in Africa?

- A They didn't want to be with other families.
- B They wanted their children to learn some independence.
- C They wanted to do something different from usual.
- D They were advised that teenagers often enjoy safaris.

3 They chose the Mdonya Old River Camp because

- A there was water nearby.
- B it wasn't easy to get to.
- C the tents were of good quality.
- D it was fairly basic.

4 'this' in line 51 refers to

- A the dusk
- B a rule
- C their disappointment
- D a plan

5 What did Esau warn them about?

- A There were many more animals than they could actually see.
- B They should move slowly if an animal came towards them.
- C They shouldn't go into the bush alone on foot.
- D Some animals were more dangerous than others.

6 Which of the following describes how the writer felt about the holiday?

- A unsure whether they would come back again
- B frustrated they hadn't seen more animals
- C relieved they hadn't been attacked
- D satisfied the children had enjoyed it

Listening | Part 4

► 14 You will hear a journalist talking on the radio about adults in their 20s and 30s who still live with their parents. For questions 1–7, choose the best answer (A, B or C).

- 1 The survey shows that the European country with the lowest number of 'boomerang kids' is
 - A France.
 - B Sweden.
 - C the UK.
- 2 In southern Europe young adults continue to live at home because of
 - A low salaries.
 - B close family ties.
 - C a shortage of affordable housing.
- 3 In the USA people are leaving home later because
 - A they are getting married later.
 - B they have to pay off student debts.
 - C their relationships with their parents are good.
- 4 Young adults living at home say the main advantage is
 - A being able to save up.
 - B having someone to do their washing and ironing.
 - C being free from responsibilities.
- 5 One disadvantage mentioned by 'boomerang kids' in the survey is
 - A the lack of time spent alone.
 - B worrying what people think of them.
 - C being treated like a child.
- 6 Having adult children at home can be a problem for parents because it can
 - A restrict their freedom.
 - B be expensive.
 - C make them tired.
- 7 The most common source of conflict between parents and their adult children are
 - A household chores.
 - B mealtimes.
 - C financial arrangements.

Writing | Part 2 Adding detail

- 1 Read some sentences from an article a student wrote about her grandparents' kitchen. Then match them to the type of detail they provide (A–F).

- 1 I always associate the kitchen with my grandmother.
- 2 The house was built in 1910 and the kitchen was extended in the 1970s.
- 3 My grandfather prefers to eat in the dining room because the chairs are more comfortable but my grandmother thinks it's too formal in there.
- 4 There are usually some flowers from the garden on the table and the smell of something wonderful cooking in the ancient oven.
- 5 It's difficult to choose my favourite dish but most people agree that my grandmother's fruit cake is delicious.
- 6 She's a very generous person; she makes jam for all her neighbours and gives them cherries and strawberries from her garden.

Type of detail

- A providing a description
- B making a comparison
- C giving an opinion
- D giving an example
- E providing facts
- F describing feelings

- 2 Now look at this examination task. Which of the sentences in Exercise 1 do you think would be relevant for this article? Tick them.

My favourite room

Tell us about your favourite room and why it's special for you.

The best article will be published in next month's magazine.

- 3 Plan your answer for this task. What type of detail would you include?

My favourite room

Facts?

Description?

Feelings?

Opinions?

Reading and Use of English | Part 1

For questions 1–8, read the text below and decide which answer (A, B, C or D) best fits each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0).

- 0 A knowledge (B) idea C understanding D suggestion

A writer's room

It may not look like an office, but that's the point. The (0) of having to work all day in an office would mean I never went there. So there are no filing cabinets or piles of mail and no distracting shelves of books.

All over the flat there are photographs I've taken of (1) countries I've visited; in here they're (2) of New Zealand – and I keep my travelling hat and my travelling bag hanging here to make me (3) that I could pack up and leave at any (4) I can't, but it's nice to (5)

If I'm doing serious writing, I prefer to be in here at night, typing on a laptop because I don't have a desk and have no (6) for one. When I injured my back, I saved up and bought the monster black leather chair. I try not to (7) anyone else sit in it, because they usually (8) to get out again – it's just too comfortable.

Grammar

The passive

- 1 Complete the newspaper article below by putting the verbs in brackets into the correct form of the passive.

Join us at the Festival of Dance

A dance festival (1) ... has been held (hold) in our town every summer since 2005. It

(2) (organise) every year by three local schools and each child (3) (give) the opportunity to take part in a performance, competition or street parade.

This year's festival will take place on 15 July and will be bigger than ever because £3,000

(4) (raise) for the prizes and there's more to come, we hope. Last year, 15 prizes of £100

(5) (award) but this year there will be at least 30 prizes. At last summer's festival, a local boy, Marcus Aston, (6) (choose) to go into a national competition. It (7) (hope) that other children (8) (offer) that chance this year.

At the end of the day, there will be a special performance by the City Schools Dance Troupe which (9) (form) in 2006 and has won many prizes. They can also (10) (see) later in the summer at the Victoria Hall and the Thames Festival.

Plans (11) (already make) for next year's festival so if you would like to help, please get in touch via the website (www.dancewithus.co.uk). If you would like your name (12) (add) to the mailing list, you can also do that on the website.

The passive with reporting verbs

- 2 Rewrite the newspaper headlines as sentences, using the verb in brackets. You will need to add some extra words.

1 PRIME MINISTER TO RESIGN TOMORROW

The Prime Minister is expected to resign tomorrow.

(expect)

2 New Airport Runway Will Probably Be Built Next Year

It (think)

3 NEW TEAM HAS BEEN SELECTED

It (report)

4 FEDERER IS THE BEST TENNIS PLAYER EVER

Federer (consider)

5 Report Proves this Summer is Hottest for 50 Years

This summer (report)

6 BONES FOUND ON BEACH BELONGED TO DINOSAUR

It (believe)

Writing | Part 2 A report

- 1 Read the exam task below and the student answer.
 Write this, that, them, these or it in each gap. In some gaps, more than one answer is possible.

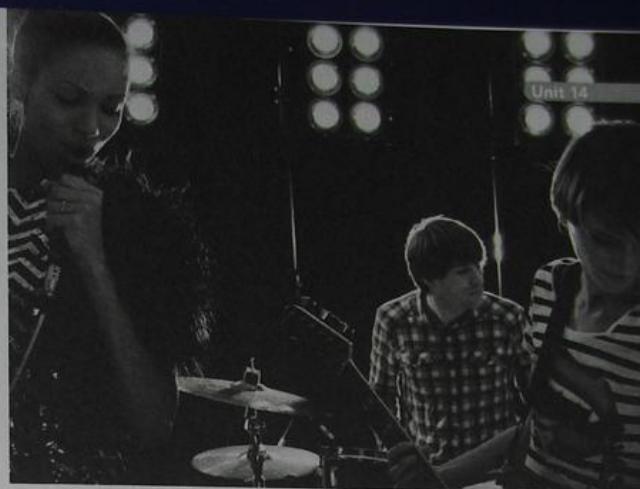

A group of you organised a music festival at your college recently. The director of the college has asked you to write a report on it. You should describe what happened and make some recommendations for a future festival.

Write your report in 140–190 words.

A group of six students organised a music festival last Saturday. There was a huge range of events including two choirs, an orchestra, a jazz band and a rock band. Each of (1)these/them..... did a concert. More than 150 students took part, some of (2) in more than one event.

We used the hall for the main choirs and orchestra concerts. (3) were very well attended not just by students and their families but by some local people too. Other events took place in the courtyard and the canteen was open at lunchtime for people to have lunch.

There are some changes we would make for future events. We didn't allow enough time for people to get from one event to another and (4) meant people arrived late. Also people wanted coffee to be served all day. To do (5) the canteen would need to be open the whole time. The performances in the courtyard were too loud which made (6) difficult to hear some of the quieter events. (7) was because we put mostly rock bands in the courtyard. Apart from (8) everybody enjoyed the day.

- 2 Choose one of the headings for each paragraph of the student answer. Why aren't the other headings suitable?

The arrangements
 Disadvantages
 Suggestions
 Audience
 Introduction
 Students

Think of a main heading for the whole article.

- 3 Now write your answer to the question below. Use the same paragraph headings as in Exercise 2. Use your own plan or the one below.

A group of you organised a drama festival at your college recently. The director of the college has asked you to write a report on it. You should describe what happened and make some recommendations for a future festival.

Write your report in 140–190 words.

Plan of report

Paragraph 1: plays, poetry, comedy
 Paragraph 2: where it took place, who came
 Paragraph 3: changes for next time, e.g. snacks, timetable, popular/unpopular events.

2 account	pharmacy
psychology	economy
3 fish	entertain
bank	support
4 lecture	produce
manufacture	investigate
5 history	library
sports	comedy
6 contest	inhabit
assist	employ

Listening | Part 3

► 15 You will hear five short extracts in which people are talking about something they are going to celebrate. For questions 1–5, choose from the list (A–H) what each person is going to celebrate. Use the letters only once. There are three extra letters which you do not need to use.

- A a place on a particular course
- B an old friend getting in touch
- C an increased salary
- D the announcement of an engagement
- E the offer of a new job
- F a move to a new flat
- G an invitation to a job interview

Festivals around the world

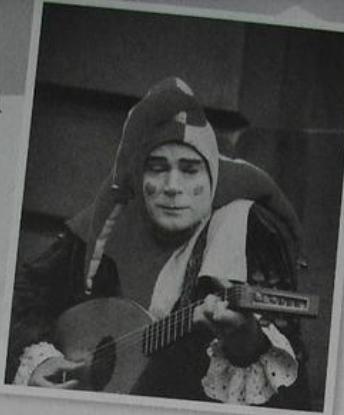

A Festival of Candelaria

The festival which takes place in Puno each year is one of the largest, longest and most extravagant celebrations in fiesta-mad Peru. So many local dance clubs now compete that the contest is spread over two weeks instead of one as in the past. There is nothing casual about these competitions. Groups must have precise numbers of participants, depending on the dance, and perform for exactly eight minutes in front of a packed stadium of transfixed spectators. After competing, many groups just keep on dancing in the narrow streets of the town.

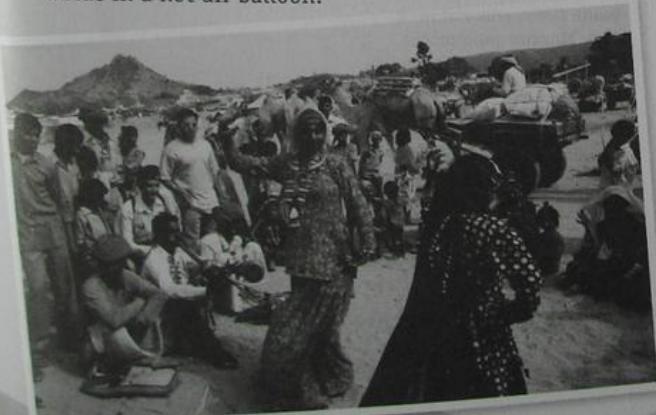

B The Edinburgh Festival

Late summer is the only period in the calendar when the cultural focus of Great Britain really shifts away from London to Scotland. For those four weeks, television crews normally based in London send their researchers searching frantically for stories and celebrities in Edinburgh. What draws the attention of the international arts world is the extraordinary cultural mix that is the Edinburgh Festival. The scale and range of its ingredients make it unique. Hundreds of events are free, many take place in the street and the festival has always recognised the vital need to involve people with no money and little experience of the arts.

C The Pushkar Fair

Once a year the Pushkar Fair takes place in India's state of Rajasthan. For five days, approximately 20,000 camels are dressed up, paraded, shaved, entered into beauty contests, raced and traded. A huge carnival is held, with musicians, magicians, dancers, acrobats, snake charmers and carousel rides to entertain the crowd. And there are camels as far as the eye can see of course. Unfortunately, camels aren't the friendliest of animals and can be obstinate creatures. More than a few camel traders seem to struggle handling their animals, who aren't interested in charming potential buyers, or even in standing up. An excellent way to witness the spectacle of the camel fair is from above by booking a ride in a hot-air balloon.

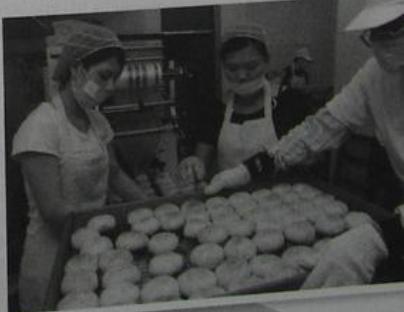

D Notting Hill Carnival

West London comes alive to the sights, sounds and colour of the Caribbean on the last weekend in August. The event has come a long way since 1964 when the local Afro-Caribbean community took a small steel band procession onto the streets. In recent years, more than two million people have taken to the streets of West London, making it second only to the Rio Carnival in size. The costumed parades form the backbone of the carnival, hoping to impress the judges with their interpretation of a chosen topic: aliens and the Wild West are just a couple of the storylines to look out for.

E The Moon Festival

'We've been working every day now for the last 60 days,' said Johnny Chan. 'We've made about three million mooncakes so far.' Mooncakes mean the Mid-Autumn Festival, or Moon Festival, which lasts for three days. The Kee Wah bakery in Hong Kong makes dozens of different types of mooncakes. 'The Cantonese-style cakes have a shiny finish, and are filled with a lotus seed paste,' said Johnny Chan. 'In the northern regions, the cakes are less sweet and are often filled with nuts or even meat,' he added. But despite their central role in the Mid-Autumn Festival, Mr Chan said that mooncake orders had declined over recent years. Part of the reason, he said, was that people think mooncakes are bad for them and prefer low-fat, low-sugar ones, but also the Moon Festival was becoming more commercialised and people focused more on the exchange of gifts.

► Track 02

Speaker 1: Every year my family get together and go down to the river for a picnic. There's usually about 12 of us – kids and grown-ups. We always do the same thing and this year I said I wasn't going. But my parents insisted because they said it would look rude. I wouldn't have minded if it was just the afternoon but I wasn't looking forward to the whole day. When I got there though my cousin had brought a couple of her friends and we sat together. I had a good time but I would still have preferred to stay at home.

Speaker 2: Every year someone in my family arranges a day out in London for all of us. This year my mum and did it and we chose to go to a musical. It was difficult to find a show that would appeal to everyone and we were a bit worried that my granny or my cousins wouldn't like it, as in my family everyone says what wouldn't like it, as in my family everyone says what they think. So when everyone said they'd had a great time, we knew we'd made the right choice. Nobody complained, even when we missed the train home and we had to wait an hour in the station.

Speaker 3: Last weekend my aunt and uncle and cousins were staying and we decided to go out for the day. We were going to the seaside but we hadn't gone far when we drove past the zoo and my cousins said they wanted to go in. So we decided we'd go in for an hour and then carry on to the seaside. But there was so much to see that we stayed there all day. My mum and dad and my granny really aren't keen on zoos and were looking forward to a day on the beach but the rest of us didn't mind at all.

Speaker 4: My sister's birthday's in the summer so we usually go out somewhere for the day. She said she wanted to go to a theme park this year which was good for me as I don't usually want to do what she suggests. It's a new park quite near where I live. I only went on half the rides I wanted to because it's huge. The whole park shut at six – I suppose because it was getting dark. It didn't matter though because Mum and Dad said we can go again. They enjoyed sitting in the café and reading the newspapers.

Speaker 5: Last Sunday I went to the seaside with my family. My brother and sister are older than me and they didn't really want to come but I persuaded them as otherwise it would have been a bit boring with Mum, Dad and my grandparents. When we got there, we had a swim in the sea and a lovely picnic which my granny made. We agreed that we'd take a boat out in the afternoon but when we went to get one they were all out, which was a real shame. Unfortunately, we hadn't realised we needed to book. So we just went for another swim and then came home.

5 My favourite game was called 'Pom Pom Home' but I haven't played it since I was 12.
6 On long summer evenings we'd play for hours and we'd come home completely exhausted.
7 To rescue someone you had to run and touch 'home', and then you had to run away quickly before you got caught.
8 It's basically quite similar to 'Hide and Seek' but it's just a bit more complicated and active.
9 I was always really thrilled when my older brother played with us because he was a fast runner and he would always rescue me if I got caught.

Interviewer: So Toby, how did you get into playing chess?

Toby: Well, I started playing with my dad when I was about 11 and I joined my club four years ago when my mom found an article in a local newspaper about the team from our local chess club winning a national tournament. My mom thought I would learn a lot from these guys. Now I'm one of the best players. All my opponents are much older than me but I'm used to it because it's like that everywhere. Anyway there are not too many players my age.

Interviewer: Playing chess on the Internet is very popular now, isn't it? Would you recommend that to new players?

Toby: I used to play chess on the Internet a lot and it was good up to a point. But I don't any more because I found my game wasn't developing. Anyway, there's nothing like the thrill of playing face to face. It's more exciting and more challenging.

Interviewer: Has watching the grandmasters play helped to develop your game?

Toby: Oh, definitely. Veselin Topalov is my favourite player of all time. He's an aggressive player and risks everything to win, and he doesn't mind sacrificing pieces if he has to. Sometimes I think he's going to lose and then I'm really surprised when he wins.

Interviewer: So what's the secret of your success? How do you decide which moves to make?

Toby: When making a move, I normally go on intuition. I'll look at the position and say, 'Which move looks comfortable to me?' After that, I choose about three moves and analyse them. I play some variations in my head. What would the position be after three moves or five moves? I look at the plans of the opponent to see if I have to do something against them or not. There is no best way to play a position. It depends on the player. But most of the time, it's just a question of knowing when to make an aggressive move and when to play a defensive move. It comes with experience.

Interviewer: Do you think you'll ever get to be a grand master yourself?

Toby: At the moment my ambition is to be ranked inside the top 100 players younger than 21 in the US Chess Federation. I'm currently ranked in the top 150 but I don't see my future career in chess.

Interviewer: Why's that?

Toby: Well, for one thing, I don't think I have the personality you need to be one of the top players. I probably could, if I really put a lot of effort into it, be a chess trainer but it doesn't pay well. So it's better for me to play for fun.

Interviewer: Experts always recommend that parents teach their children chess to help them learn about logic. Do you think that's useful?

Interviewer: Some people say that a game of chess is like the game of life. Do you agree with that?

Toby: No, I don't think chess is like life. I mean in some ways I suppose you could say it's similar. Many people set themselves targets and plan ahead for the future, for example. But in my mind, it's really important to separate chess and life because in chess, you can plan every move you make and you have a fairly good idea of what will happen next. And that's not true in life.

Interviewer: OK, we'll take a break now and ...

Presenter: One. You overhear someone talking to a tour guide.

Tourist: I just wanted to say, yesterday evening, when we went round the town, sightseeing, it was really good to have you show us everything and tell us where to go and what to do. I know later in the week we're going on another tour which is in the afternoon this time. So it'll be hot and I think it would be a good idea to have a break and get a drink in a café in the middle of the tour. It was OK yesterday because it was evening but I don't think I can manage to walk round for two hours in the heat.

Presenter: Two. You hear a man talking on the radio about a place he visited on holiday.

Man: It's not yet been discovered by most tourists so don't bother going there if you're looking for nightlife.

You will though want to have space in your suitcases to bring home some of the local crafts and you can spend hours wandering the streets going in and out of the souvenir places spending your money. Apart from that, there's not really much else to do. You can get a bus into the surrounding countryside but, to be honest, it's a bit dull. You'll have to entertain yourself by sitting in a café and watching people. That always fascinates me – other people's lives are more interesting than mine!

Presenter: Three. You overhear two people talking about a holiday.

Man: Well, the holiday could have been better.

Woman: Oh, it wasn't that bad. I mean, when I realised our flight was going to be held up because of fog, I thought, 'Oh no, that's when the bags get on the wrong plane and go to the wrong place'.

Man: I know. I was worried too. I hate not having all my things.

Woman: But we were lucky there.

Man: Not so lucky with the hotel though.

Woman: Our room was OK.

Man: Well, I'm not surprised it wasn't fully booked even at the busiest time of year. I won't go back there again.

Presenter: Four. You overhear a woman leaving a message on an answerphone.

Woman: Hi, Janey. Look, I know we made all the arrangements the other day about getting to the airport, and we agreed you would give me a lift, but I think we've allowed far too much time to get there. I was talking to a friend of mine who drives a taxi and he said it's a very straightforward journey. He said another time he'll take us in his taxi. So, anyway, shall I see you at mine about 8.30 instead of 8? Let me know. I can still get the bus and see you at the check-in if it's easier for you.

Presenter: Five. You hear two people talking about a TV programme they saw.

Woman: I enjoyed that documentary about Africa but I wonder how they filmed some of it. I've heard that occasionally they film in a zoo to get good pictures.

Man: I'd be really annoyed if they'd done that. But it's unlikely as they showed how they'd made it afterwards. I could have done without that presenter though who seemed to think he was talking to a bunch of school kids.

Woman: Well, the alternative was more of that awful music in the background.

Man: True. TV producers seem afraid of silence but I've watched so many of these programmes, it didn't bother me.

Presenter: Six. You hear the following announcement on a train.

Announcer: This is the 4.15 service to Birmingham. This is to inform passengers travelling on this train that there will be two extra stops as stated on the departure board in the station. This is because the train which was due to depart for Birmingham at 12 minutes past four was cancelled. Passengers due to travel on that train were told to catch this one instead.

This train is usually a non-stop service so we apologise for a slight delay in arriving at our destination. We also apologise to those passengers who were due to catch the earlier train.

Presenter: Seven. You overhear two people arranging a trip together.

Woman: So, I know you want to plan where we'll go in New Zealand but what happens if we arrive somewhere and we really like it and want to stay longer? If we've already booked a hotel in the next town, we'll have to move on.

Man: But we can save a lot of money by booking in advance on the Internet.

Woman: Sometimes you also get a good deal when you book on the day, so I don't think that matters. And if you're worried about money, we could just stay in cheaper places.

Man: And I suppose if we don't manage to see everything we want, we'll have to go back on another trip!

Presenter: Eight. You hear two people talking about something that happened on a journey.

Man: Hi, Tara. How was the long train journey from Edinburgh?

Woman: Well, it went really fast because I started talking to the man sitting opposite me. I told him all about how I want to study literature and the novel I've been writing.

Man: So, he must have been interested if he kept listening.

Woman: He was very polite. The thing is I talked a lot about creative writing and how you do it. Then when he got off, he gave me his card and he's a well-known author. I was really ashamed of myself as I didn't give him a chance to say very much so I had no idea.

Interviewer: Today we welcome Ivor Roberts who owns a chain of restaurants and he's going to tell us what it's like for him.

Ivor: Thank you. I now have six restaurants but I started off with one small one in the town where I grew up. The job of running the restaurants is exhausting but enjoyable at the same time because of the responsibility. That side of it can also be quite frightening at times. The restaurants are now really popular and I don't want that to change. We get a lot of repeat business, you know, customers coming back to us again and again. I think the reason for that is that they're looking for the kind of quality that's not easy to find in most restaurants. In fact, it's not easy for us to achieve day in and day out but we get close. Looking back, the best piece of advice I'd give to someone starting a restaurant is that it's essential to build a strong team and that's what I did from day one. Without that the business can't succeed.

We're like a family. Everyone has to play their part. Training the cooks is a really important part of my job. The first thing I tell them to do before they try and make a dish is to work out what the ingredients are. That's the starting point. How can they cook something if they can't taste what's in it? Most people learn very quickly. Another thing I focus on is keeping my staff motivated and interested. When they've done a good job, I tell them but one thing I don't do is to let them see each fantastic review we get. I'm more interested in finding out what we can do better and how we can continue to learn.

I don't want to give the impression that I don't get it wrong sometimes because of course I do. We had one restaurant a few years ago that wasn't doing very well. It was full at the weekends but empty during the week. People were only booking it for a celebration of some kind. So we made a few changes, made it more relaxed so people felt it was somewhere they could go every day of the week.

Another thing I am passionate about is that every customer receives a level of service which never changes, whatever time or day of the week it is. And I think commitment to detail is the way to do that. In fact, we hardly ever get any complaints and rarely about the food. But sometimes people aren't happy because they can't get a table. At one of our restaurants which is by the river, where there are just 20 tables, we get over 500 calls a day for reservations. That's about 3,000 calls a week! Demand is really high and we have to make sure that people aren't disappointed when they do get a table. I do that by making sure the menu is always exciting.

My favourite part of the job will always be choosing what goes on the menu. I still get involved in that and it never gets boring. That's what's so wonderful about cooking; it's seasonal, so the kind of things we cook changes every three months or so. In summer, it's really light and fresh with lots of fish and salads and more cold food, of course. Then after that, the food starts to get richer and heavier in September. There's more red meat and game on the menu, for example.

Well, I think the only thing left to say is that if you haven't been to one of my restaurants, I do hope you'll come and see for yourself.

Speaker 1: A friend suggested I should do this course because I've been going from job to job recently. I'd love to be a bit more settled and do something I can really get satisfaction from. The best answer seems to be to set up on my own making jewellery which I enjoy. I'm quite good at it and I think I can do it if I can get enough money to buy the materials. The course itself is quite expensive but I don't know anything about finances and planning so it's exactly what I need. I don't want to make any mistakes.

Speaker 2: I was always good at languages and history and got really good marks in those subjects at school but I didn't want to go on with them. I've now decided I want to do something with science – I'd like to be able to research new drugs or maybe become a doctor. The problem is I've hardly done any science until now so I'm doing a course to catch up. Then I will apply to do a biology degree or even medicine. I really want to have a skill I can use to help other people and maybe travel abroad, too. Then I'd be able to use my languages as well.

Speaker 3: I'm doing a course in marketing as it's an area I know very little about. The other people on the course are really friendly but mostly older than me and I sometimes end up helping them with some of the computer programs we have to use. That's good for my confidence. I'm hoping the course will help my prospects at work – I want to apply for something with more responsibility. I didn't go to university and this course might help me to show my company that I'm capable of much more than I'm doing at the moment.

Speaker 4: I work for an accountant and I love my job because I've always been good at maths. I get on well with my colleagues and I'm already in charge of a department. My only problem is I don't get much free time as I often have to work late. It's really easy to just sit in front of the TV when I get home, so I decided to do a photography course. It makes me go out and about taking photos, and it also means I'm doing something which uses the opposite part of my brain from my job, which is all facts and figures.

Speaker 5: My main thing in life is swimming. I'm still at school, and in my holidays and at weekends I work as a lifeguard in the local pool. I'm saving up all the money I earn as I want to travel to Australia and spend a year there. I'm doing a scuba-diving course at the moment because I've been told that I should get work teaching tourists to dive off the Barrier Reef if I'm properly qualified. That would be fun and I'd get to know some people of my own age too, hopefully. After that, I'll probably go to university.

4 Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to apply in response to your advertisement for a tour guide in the Bosham Daily News last Thursday.

I am a 22-year-old history student at Arundel University, where, since March, I have been vice-president of the Canute Local History Society. As a result, I have a good knowledge of Bosham's history and am able to speak confidently on the events and legends which make the town such an attraction, especially for Spanish tourists.

- 5 Although I have never given tours before, I am used to dealing with the public. Last summer I worked in a stationery shop where I had to serve customers and handle money, and the year before I worked at my local swimming pool as a lifeguard. Obviously both of these experiences would help me enormously if I were successful with this application.

Being a student, I am available to work throughout July and August, including weekends. I would also be able to attend an interview any weekday morning this month.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,
 Lucía Puerto

Presenter: One. You overhear two people talking at the end of the day.

Man: Oh, I'm ready to put my feet up on the sofa now. What a day!

Woman: I've had quite a good day but I'm looking forward to watching TV tonight. I don't have any work to take home for once.

Man: I've got loads to do but it'll wait till Monday.

Woman: I'll walk with you if you're ready. I need to stop at the supermarket though to get something for dinner.

Man: Oh, could you get me some milk? I just need to send a couple of emails. I'll see you outside the supermarket entrance in five minutes.

Presenter: Two. You hear a man talking on the phone about a job he has been offered.

Man: Yeah, they've offered it to me. Well, as soon as I went into the interview I kind of knew I was right for the job, so I was really expecting to be offered it. But now it's actually happened, I've realised that I've got to move to Germany and I don't know anyone there. It's a good job of course so I should take it. In fact, it's the job of my dreams but now I've also been offered one nearby. If I took that one, I wouldn't have to move but it's not so interesting.

Presenter: Three. You hear a woman talking on the radio about her job.

Woman: Well, my job is quite varied and I really enjoy it. I know there are some photography jobs which take you to all kinds of amazing places so some people would find my job a bit boring maybe, taking photos of children all day long. It's mainly children. Their parents bring them to the studio and sometimes I take family groups. But I love it and the day passes so fast because the whole process fascinates me – getting the right shot and every one is different. I'm on my feet nearly all day but I'm used to that so it doesn't bother me.

Presenter Four: You hear a woman talking to a group of students.

Woman: Welcome everybody. Now, I know you're all interested in a career in publishing so we're very pleased to have you here for a week as work experience. You all filled in a form saying what you are particularly interested in. It's been a bit difficult as the majority of you have asked to be placed in the same department so, to give everybody the same chance, you'll spend a day in each department rather than a week in the same one. If you look in your folder, you will find a map and a list of where you are all starting today. Now are there any ...

Presenter: Five. You hear two people talking about their office.

Man: Do you like our new office? It's much more comfortable than the old one, isn't it? Although I'm finding it difficult to concentrate with everyone on the phone.

Woman: Oh, most people have quiet voices and the desks are really far apart. What I don't understand is why they haven't filled that extra space with cupboards and filing cabinets.

Man: I know. I've got piles of stuff under my desk because there's nowhere to put it. And we've been told to keep it tidy.

Woman: Maybe they're going to move more people in. That would be a shame as it's nice having the extra space.

Presenter: Six. You hear a teenager talking to his boss.

Woman: Peter, you should have been here an hour ago. We need you to help the chef in the kitchen. Was your bus cancelled or something?

Teenager: But I'm early – I don't start for another half an hour. I've come to leave my bag and I'm going to give my mum a hand with the shopping. She dropped me off in the car and now she's gone to the supermarket.

Woman: But you're standing in for Sarah who can't work today. She said she'd ring you.

Teenager: She did but she was so busy telling me where she's going today, she didn't say anything about you needing me to do extra.

Woman: Ohhh ...

Presenter: Seven. You hear a message on a telephone answering service.

Man: Hello, Emily. I'm just ringing about tomorrow. I know you don't usually work in the shop on Saturday because of your drama group, but there just isn't anyone else this week because of Michael being ill. I've just got your text saying you can work all day and I'm really grateful as I don't know what we would have done – it's really good of you. I'm going to a wedding so you won't be able to contact me but I know you'll manage. Let me know which day off you'd like instead. As soon as Michael is better, we'll be back to normal.

Presenter: Eight. You hear a girl talking to a friend.

Girl: Hi, Colin. You work in that hotel, don't you? I really need a job.

Boy: I can check to see if there are any vacancies. I'm learning quite a bit about different recipes. I do all the preparation and I'm getting really fast at chopping veg.

Girl: Mmm ... not sure if that would suit me. I'm better at dealing with people.

Boy: Like in the restaurant or the front desk you mean?

Girl: Yeah, but I'm quite clumsy carrying plates and things. I'd really enjoy booking people in and that sort of thing though.

Boy: I'll ask if they need anyone.

Cave diving, officially the world's most dangerous sport, isn't for everyone. If you're the kind of person who enjoys being underwater in dark, enclosed spaces then it's probably the ultimate adventure sport. People often say cave diving sounds like their worst nightmare but for people like me it's a real passion. It's like the caves have a power over me. What I love about it most is the amazing beauty of these caves, not to mention their incredible size. It's like nowhere else. You're looking at rock formations that are millions of years old and the water is crystal clear.

Another thing I like is that I'm seeing things that no one has ever seen before; I'm like an explorer discovering new places. This is especially true now that I go down on my own. When I was first learning how to dive, I went down with an instructor who showed me where to go so that wasn't the same. But you shouldn't go alone until you've had lots of practice and experience. Even then it can be very dangerous but that's what some divers say they love about it. They enjoy the challenge. I always plan my dives as much as I can as I prefer to be in control. If I feel stressed, I make mistakes. But if you know what you're doing, then you shouldn't have a problem. I think the worst thing that can happen is if your lights go out for some reason; it's really scary being in total darkness. So that's why it's important to take two sets of lights with you. Something you need to be aware of is that you can't immediately escape to the surface if you get into difficulties, which means your survival depends on your problem-solving abilities. You need to recognise what is happening and follow all the correct procedures you've been taught.

Having said all that, cave diving isn't dangerous if you follow a few simple rules. Most of the accidents you read about could have been avoided if these people had followed simple steps to reduce the risks involved. Usually they've done something which wasn't safe and they should have known better. It's also very important to know when to 'call a dive', or go back. Another big danger is getting lost. Imagine entering an underwater room and looking back to see there is not one, but dozens of passages, and not knowing which way leads back to the entrance. The longer you spend under water, the more gas you need on your back to help you breathe. You need enough to allow you the time to get back to the entrance if something goes wrong. So it's obviously only a sport for experienced divers. Even if you have all the right equipment, that won't help you if you don't know what you're doing so you should never attempt cave diving without adequate training. There are lots of good courses to choose from.

It takes a special sort of person to become a good cave diver. You must be the kind of person who doesn't panic if something goes wrong, and that takes a great deal of self-control. However, you can learn a lot about yourself from diving and I think knowing you can survive in such a demanding environment gives you greater confidence, both at work and socially. It won't help you get a job or make friends but it will make you feel better about yourself.

Speaker 1: Have you seen Black Watch 3 yet? I really enjoyed the other Black Watch films and this one is just as funny. It's got the same actors in it as the others and they're really good as usual. The story continues from the last film – you know when they were on that desert island – but even if you hadn't seen that, you'd still be able to follow what was happening. But I was just getting involved in the story when it suddenly finished. It's only half the length of the other two films. It started well but didn't get a chance to develop properly.

Speaker 2: I'd read about The Purple Rose and it sounded really good. I hadn't heard of any of the actors but they should get a lot more parts now after their performances in this film. The only problem was that there were five or six different storylines which made it very difficult to follow. It's full of action which meant I couldn't take my eyes off the screen and there are some good comedy scenes but I wasn't sure half the time why something was happening. It could have been shorter too and it wouldn't have lost anything.

Speaker 3: A Beautiful Land is set in New Zealand and is based on a book of the same name. They'd obviously gone to a lot of trouble to make sure they followed the story and the locations in the book. There are lots of beautiful shots. It's about two people who emigrated there a hundred years ago so it's a love story really and the two main actors are really good. But there's not much else to it and, to be honest, I couldn't wait for it to finish. It could have been at least 30 minutes shorter. It really wouldn't have made much difference.

Speaker 4: Stephen Chadley is my favourite director so I was looking forward to his new film Out of the Blue. He always chooses at least one unknown actor as one of the stars and he's never got it wrong before. So, despite being set in a wonderful location in southern Thailand and having a really good script and gripping storyline, I didn't think any of the actors did a very good job, even those who are quite well-known. There were some funny moments though and it's got a very good ending – not what you'd expect at all.

Speaker 5: Jack Bradley and Manuel Gonzalez star in A Long Ride. They are apparently good friends in real life. That came across in the film which is about a trip on a motorbike across South America. They didn't have a script – they just filmed what happened and a lot of interesting things did happen! The acting was of a really high standard but they are both very good comic actors and it was a shame they didn't take advantage of that – it could have been quite funny but was actually rather depressing. Although it was quite long, because they're always moving on to a new location, it didn't seem to matter.

▶ Track 10

Interviewer: My guest this morning is Professor Martin Jackson from the Weller Institute, who's been doing some research into scientific studies on happiness. Welcome to the programme.

Professor: Thank you.

Interviewer: Is happiness something that can really be measured scientifically?

Professor: Oh, very much so. It's something psychologists have been studying for decades. Worldwide surveys investigating political changes have given us a very clear picture of how satisfied people are with their lives in different countries, for example. And we've discovered that simply by asking people how happy they are, we get a measure of happiness that is as good as the economists' measure of poverty or growth. What's new is that, in the same way that economic performance is used to measure government success, we expect that within ten years, governments will be judged on how happy they have made us.

Interviewer: That's very interesting. So individual happiness can really have an impact on society?

Professor: Yes. Some studies have shown that happy people live longer than depressed people. The difference can be as much as nine years between the happiest and unhappiest groups, which is very significant if you consider that a good diet has been shown to only increase life expectancy by an average of five or six years. That's probably not what most people expect to hear as we're told so much about the importance of diet.

Interviewer: That is quite surprising. Do the studies show if people are getting happier?

Professor: Interestingly, happiness levels have remained stable in industrialised countries for the last 50 years, despite dramatic increases in the standard of living. So, being richer isn't making us happier, although being poor does make people unhappy. But once you have enough money for a home, food and education for your children, extra money doesn't affect happiness.

Interviewer: So it's true that money can't buy happiness?

Professor: Well, we think that what happens when people buy things they think will make them happy, whether that's a new car or a bar of chocolate, is that the happiness they get from these things doesn't last. And so they need to buy more to get another short burst of pleasure.

Interviewer: I see. So I suppose what really makes people happy are their relationships with others.

Professor: Yes. This is the most important key to happiness. And it's the quality of those relationships that counts. So having one or two close friends is just as beneficial for happiness as having a wide circle of family and friends. It's even been suggested that friendship can protect against illness, and that continues throughout our lives.

Interviewer: Really? What about work? Is that important for happiness?

Professor: Indeed it is. We've always known that people need to feel valued at work in order to be happy, and it goes without saying that people will feel happier if they actually enjoy what they're doing. But what we're discovering now is that having targets, which develop our skills and abilities, so that we reach our full potential, is essential for our happiness.

Interviewer: I suppose that makes sense. So is there a magic formula for happiness? I mean, is there anything people can do to make themselves happy?

Professor: Well, this is something that psychologists are trying to find out. There are action points which include things like smiling more and being helpful to other people, but there's no hard evidence yet that these things significantly improve happiness. What we do know, however, is that the biggest barrier to happiness is envy. So if we can try not to judge ourselves against other people, we'd certainly be happier.

Interviewer: Well, that sounds like really sound advice. Thank you very much. And if you've got any questions for Professor Jackson ...

Presenter: One. You hear a woman talking to her son.

Woman: I'm happy for you to go on holiday with your friends and I'm sure you'll have a good time. I know you need some pocket money though and it really isn't going to help you if I give you money every time you need it. You already have your allowance – I don't know where that's all gone. It would be a good idea for you to earn some money by getting a weekend job. You've got time to save up. Then you might be more careful with it when you've got more idea of the value. So it's up to you to make a decision now.

Presenter: Two. You overhear a teenager talking to a shop assistant.

Teenager: I bought this jacket last week and I really like it. I didn't have time to try it on so I took it home with me and tried it on there but it's too small. I'm afraid I'll have to ask you for my money back. There isn't anything else here that I want at the moment or I could have exchanged it. I could try a bigger one but they really look much too big and also they're not in the colour I want. I've got it here in the bag.

Presenter: Three. You overhear two people talking.

Man: I'm working all weekend because it's going to be really busy apparently.

Woman: Me too but I need the money so I don't mind. I hope I get to be in the stock room rather than being on the till. People are in such a rush at the weekend.

Man: Yeah, and some people just come in for a newspaper and they have to stand in a long queue.

Woman: And they can be really rude sometimes even though it's not our fault. It isn't right – they should think about what it's like for us.

Man: Oh, I just ignore them. I can't be bothered to get annoyed.

Presenter: Four. You hear the following on the radio.

Man: ... and if anyone would like more information on any of the topics we've discussed, it's all on our website, www.looknorth.com. Before we move on to our weekly programme, On the Coast, I need to remind you that our wonderful new shopping centre is opening today with lots of new and exciting shops. The main street is now pedestrian only so best to leave the car at home – there are plenty of buses. If I didn't have to be here, I'd certainly get down there myself. And now, we join Mark Priestley who's out and about ...

Presenter: Five. You hear two people talking about their holiday plans.

Man: Shall I get some foreign currency from the bank for our trip?

Woman: We could do it at the airport.

Man: But you get poor exchange rates there. I'll check it out on the Internet. I've bought one of these body belts so I can put my money in it. I know some people think they're a waste of time.

Woman: Oh, I use one of those – I prefer it to having a bag. Let's not change too much money. We can always get more cash when we get there.

Man: But we're not going to be near many towns and we don't want to run out – better to have a bit extra.

Presenter: Six. You overhear a woman talking to a friend.

Woman: I bought a new computer yesterday. A young man showed me what they had in the shop – everything has changed so much since I last bought one. He couldn't do enough for me – checking out what I asked him. But it took forever because he had to keep looking everything up and he didn't go about it in a very logical way. He came up with all the answers in the end but he didn't seem to know much more than me. But I was really pleased with what I got thanks to his efforts. It was just lucky I wasn't in a hurry.

Presenter: Seven. You hear a teenager talking to his friend about buying clothes online.

Girl: Hi, James. Those are nice jeans.

Boy: They just came in the post. I got them from a website which specialises in this style of jeans.

Girl: Oh, I prefer looking round the shops and trying things on.

Boy: I do too, but on the Internet you can compare all the different sites – lots of them have the same thing on them – then you know you're really getting a bargain. Girl: I find there's so much to choose from on the Internet I don't know where to start.

Boy: I know. That's why I usually find what I want in the shops and then get it online.

Presenter: Eight. You hear a message on an answerphone.

Boy: I'd love to come climbing with you but the thing is I haven't got any of the gear and it costs a lot to hire it. My brother has everything I need but he won't lend it to me even if I ask him nicely. I was telling my granny and she said it was a real shame that I can't go, so she's going to talk to my brother. He adores Granny and she can usually persuade him to do something. So, I'm pretty hopeful but if he says no, there aren't any other options. I'll have to come with you when you do something else.

Jake: Thank you for seeing me, Doctor Reid. I've got some questions I need to investigate for my project on the effect of sleep on school students.

Dr Reid: OK. Well, fire away!

Jake: Well, the first thing I'm not sure about is whether people in general are sleeping less than in the past. I've read some reports on the Internet which give conflicting information.

Dr Reid: It's good to see you are checking your facts; the Internet can be unreliable. As you know, today the average person gets about seven and a half hours' sleep every night, which is a bit less than the recommended eight hours. However, without the interference of electric light bulbs and alarm clocks, people usually sleep for nine hours and this was the case up to the early part of the 20th century.

Jake: I thought so. And is it natural for people to just sleep at night like most people do now?

Dr Reid: If allowed to, we would sleep for two periods in the night and get up and do things in the middle. We just don't do that now because of our working days. Also, most people have a tendency to feel sleepy after lunch but because of the way our days are structured, most of us just have a cup of coffee and carry on, when we should let ourselves have a nap – just for half an hour at the most. But a constant need to nap is a sign that people aren't getting enough sleep at night, which is a problem that seems to be getting worse.

Jake: I've read that it's a problem that affects teenagers in particular.

Dr Reid: That's correct. A lot of teenagers are getting far too little sleep and there are concerns that this could have a serious long-term impact on their health, but we don't know for sure yet. Researchers are also looking into how far a lack of sleep affects young people with depression. But one study has clearly demonstrated that high-school students getting low grades also get on average one hour less sleep than students getting As and Bs.

Jake: Really? Why do you think teenagers aren't getting enough sleep?

Dr Reid: It's an interesting question. It's a problem that seems to affect all teenagers, not just the ones who eat the wrong things and who don't take any exercise. So my feeling is that parents need to take more responsibility. Too many teenagers watch TV in their rooms or play computer games until very late, or they're allowed to go out on school nights.

Jake: Some of my friends say they stay up late because they can't get to sleep if they go to bed earlier.

Dr Reid: Well, there are things you can do to make yourself feel sleepy. Your brain needs to switch off and relax so don't have any drinks that contain caffeine, which includes hot chocolate and a lot of soft drinks. Reading a book you know well or listening to a story, rather than music, should help your brain to relax.

Jake: So you shouldn't do your homework just before going to sleep?

Dr Reid: Definitely not! Schools should be careful how much homework they set because working late in the evening doesn't help people to get a good night's sleep. It would be better for schools to stay open for longer so that pupils can do their homework before they get home to avoid this problem. Another thing that some schools have tried successfully is to begin the school day half an hour later, which seems like a good idea to me.

Jake: Well, that's very interesting. Thank you, Doctor Reid. Just one last question. Is it true that our brains are actively thinking while we're asleep?

Dr Reid: Well, our brains are good at sorting information while we are asleep. It's often the case that we wake up having found the answer to a problem that we'd been worrying about the day before. But it's important to write it down immediately as we can forget it easily.

Jake: Great. That's all the information I need. Thanks very much for your help.

Kirsty: Good morning. My name's Kirsty Willis and I'm here to talk to you about what it's like to work in a zoo and about some other careers you may be interested in that also involve working with animals.

OK. The job that most people associate with working with animals is in a zoo. Although there are job openings which don't require many qualifications, for most posts there's a lot of competition so it's unlikely that you'll be considered without a degree. Zoos have changed a lot over the years and focus on a conservation role nowadays which involves care, education and study. But don't expect to have very much contact with the animals because they tend to be left as much as possible to live as they would in the wild. Although you still may help with normal tasks of feeding, keeping records, etc., a lot of the time is spent on education, so you should have excellent public-speaking skills. You'll be talking to visitors to the zoo and showing groups of schoolchildren round, so you need to be able to get your enthusiasm across to them. Because what happens in a zoo is more or less the same each day, the job will appeal to you if you like to have routines in your life. You will have to deal with unexpected problems and challenges on occasions of course, but that's the same in most jobs.

Another related area is working in aquariums with sea mammals and fish. You need similar skills to those required for working in a zoo but you also need to be able to swim well and have experience of using a boat as most of the aquariums have large areas of water. You'll spend a large part of the day preparing and distributing the fishy diets, and dealing with chemicals that are used in the tanks. The job isn't as physically tiring as working in a zoo but by the time you go home, you will almost certainly smell. It will be obvious to everyone that you've been working with fish!

One job that immediately springs to mind when we mention working with animals is working as a vet. Training for this takes a long time, as long or even longer than for a doctor. You can work with all kinds of animals but you have to take into consideration that it can be frustrating because the animals can be very negative towards the vet. Conditioning tells them that every time this guy comes around, they aren't feeling well or it's going to be an uncomfortable, scary experience. To be a good vet, you don't just need knowledge of the science, you should be able to communicate with both animals and humans. That skill is really important – much more than making a quick decision about what is wrong with an animal.

The last job I'm going to talk about is being an animal trainer. There used to be opportunities in circuses but animals are used much less now to perform, but animals trainers are still required in films so it's worth thinking about that. The training required is primarily experience. The pay for these jobs can be pretty low and many people will work for free at first.

It's also very hard work. The day starts early, as early as four or five in the morning and in most cases won't finish till 14 hours later. Don't forget in most jobs you work eight hours a day maximum. This is definitely not a nine to five job!

There are other jobs of course like research or working for the government but I don't think we've got time to go into those here. But if you'd like any more information, there are a number of websites that will ...

Matt: Hello and welcome to the programme. This morning we're going to discuss 'boomerang kids': adults that stay at home or return after university to live with their parents until they're in their mid-twenties or even their mid-thirties. And here to tell us about the results of a recent survey on this subject is Sadie Andrews.

Sadie: Thanks, Matt. Yes. Well, the results show that the number of 18 to 24 year olds in Europe still living at home has reached 67%, although that figure is much lower for countries in northern Europe – Sweden has overtaken the UK and France as the country with the fewest 'boomerang kids' with only 46% of this age-group still living at home. As you might expect, that figure rises to over 90% for countries in southern Europe such as Spain and Italy, where young people have traditionally lived with their parents for longer. And despite relatively low rents, there's little change here because family relationships remain very strong.

Matt: That's very interesting. And what about outside Europe?

Sadie: Yes. The survey also covered the United States where the trend is also for people to live at home longer, though here the reason given wasn't to do with people having to pay back huge student loans, as this is nothing new. 'Boomerang kids' here said there was no reason for them to leave home because they got on so well with their parents. Many people reported continuing to live at home even after they got married. So there's obviously less of a generation gap than there used to be.

Matt: I can see there are advantages. Having your mum to do your washing and ironing, for example.

Sadie: People interviewed for the survey didn't admit to that – even if it were true – though I know my mum wouldn't be prepared to do my washing and ironing. In fact, the impression I get is that boomerang kids are pretty responsible people. What they seem to appreciate most is that they're not spending vast sums of money on rent and other bills so they can put money aside for when they do leave. But of course, there are disadvantages. Interviewees report that having to tell their parents what time they'll be home or not being able to spend time at home with friends without first asking permission is a frustrating experience and they complain that a lot of parents still think of 'boomerang kids' as just kids.

Matt: Yes. That must be difficult. What about the parents? What do they think?

Sadie: On the whole, most don't seem to mind and are willing to help their adult children out wherever possible. However, in some cases parents find that just when they've reached the point in their lives when they have the time and the money to do whatever they want, they are held back because of their adult children's needs. On the other hand, there is evidence to show that having boomerang kids back at home does keep them young – they're more likely to be in touch with the latest ideas in fashion and watch different TV programmes. And some parents say they feel less tired because there's more going on at home – maybe their children's friends coming in and more people to talk to.

Matt: Right. So, before we hear from the listeners, what advice would you give for families in this situation?

Sadie: Well, obviously things are going to run more smoothly if everyone involved does their fair share, so it's a good idea to work out a fair contribution for bills and jobs such as shopping and washing-up. However, feedback from the results of the survey suggests that deciding in advance how often they are going to eat together, if at all, and at what time, will avoid resentment building up on both sides. This causes more arguments than any other issue.

Matt: Thanks, Sadie. Right, if you've got any comments to make, please call ...

College Drama Festival

Introduction

A group of students organised a drama festival last weekend. There were lots of exciting events including performances of plays, some comedy and students reading poetry, some of which they had written themselves.

In total, about 100 students took part, many of them helping backstage with scenery, costumes and lighting.

The arrangements

Events took place in the drama studio as well as in some classrooms. It was well advertised and most students from the college attended as well as their families and some local schoolchildren. Some students volunteered to do workshops with the children. These were very popular and went on all day.

Suggestions

There are some changes we would make for future events. There were too many performances going on at the same time and this meant that some people had to miss things which they really wanted to go to. Some of the poetry performances were less popular than the comedy so we would have more comedy next time. We also need to have snacks on sale for the children. Apart from that, everybody had a fantastic day.

Speaker 1: We're going out later to celebrate my good news. For ages now I'd been looking for another job nearer to where I live because it costs me quite a lot to get to work on the train. My flat is on the outskirts of the city and I work in the centre. I had an interview last week at a firm where a couple of my friends work but I wasn't that impressed, then today my boss said he was going to give me a pay rise. So I'll stay there now even though I have quite a long journey every day.

Speaker 2: I called on Anita. She looks really well and is obviously delighted. They haven't decided on a name yet but 'Sam' is the favourite at the moment. That's what her husband's best friend is called, apparently. Anyway, he's beautiful and looks just like her. She wants us all to go round on Sunday to meet him properly and we can celebrate then. And they only moved to that flat recently so she's been very busy, what with the move and finishing her course to qualify as a lawyer. She hasn't got the results yet but I'm sure she did OK.

Speaker 3: I just bumped into my cousin Olivia. She's finished her nursing course. She's going to work in a hospital in London as a midwife delivering babies. She had an interview last week and she only found out she got it today. She's so pleased as it's what she really wants to do and she'll be on a reasonable salary so she'd like us to help her celebrate by going out for a meal tonight. She'll have to move to London of course, and it's really expensive to find a flat there but we'll be able to go and see her.

Speaker 4: I've known George nearly all my life because his family moved into the flat next door to us when we were both babies. We went to the same school and revised for our exams together but it was only last week that we decided to get married. He gave me this beautiful ring and we're having a party next weekend. The wedding will be in the summer and we're looking for a flat near the railway station because I need to catch the train to work and I don't want to have to change my job.

Speaker 5: I decided to do another course rather than go for that job I applied for. It'll mean I can start off at a higher level if I have better qualifications. Anyway, I needed certain grades and I got what I wanted! I got the results today so a few of us are going to have a party tonight to celebrate. Most people did well. Mark and I are thinking of getting engaged but we won't get married till after I've finished and found a job, because we won't know where we want to live.
